

From The Times
September 10, 2007

Clothes to die for

Sir, Barry Rogers professes sympathy for atheists who will be “all dressed up and nowhere to go” when the last trump sounds. I fear he misses the point: we don’t believe there’s anywhere to go, so we won’t be dressing for the occasion.

Theists, on the other hand . . .

BOB BURY, Leeds